

WE KNOW YOU'VE BEEN waiting for news of the first New Zealand feature film to be shot on a Thompson Viper, and here it is. Garage Sale, currently in production on the Kapiti Coast, has been totally viperised, viz, shot on a digital camera that records directly to hard drives. No film or even videotape required. It's been done overseas before (David Fincher's Zodiac, for example) but never here.

Directed by Geoff Murphy's son Paul from a script by Nick Ward (Stickmen) and Linda Niccol, Garage Sale centres on the predations of a voracious bargain-hunter played by Geraldine Brophy. ■
Email: culture@listener.co.nz

ONLINE ONLY Natasha Hay on the RSC's King Lear and The Seagull.
www.listener.co.nz